MSC A motion was made by Diane Wormsley and seconded by Kim Charlson that Susan Spicknall be appointed as a member of the Ad Hoc Early Literacy Materials Production Committee. The motion passed unanimously.

There was much discussion about the nature of the early literacy document—should it repeat the material on early literacy that is present in Formats? Should it be an appendix to Formats? Should it stand alone?

GC The board send the following directive to the Early Literacy Materials Production committee: “The BANA Board discussed the status of the Early Literacy Materials Production Promising Practices Document. The original intent of Promising Practices was that it be a stand-alone document that could be used by those who transcribe early literacy materials including consumable materials, without their having to be familiar with the entire Formats or Tactile Graphics Guidelines. As such, the BANA Board directs the ELMP Committee to include the necessary Formats and Tactile Graphics Guidelines (with references) within the Promising Practices document itself, rather than simply referring users to Formats or Tactile Graphics.”

[Charge #167 (11/15/07) to look at streamlining the appointment process and defining the role of associate members of BANA.]

24 Education and Outreach Committee Frances Mary D'Andrea

Frances Mary D'Andrea, chair of the committee, read the report, which is on file.

8/13/2011: It was moved by FM D'Andrea and seconded by Darleen Bogart that the evolution of braille article part 2 be approved by the BANA board. The deadline for this vote was Tuesday, at noon eastern time. The motion passed unanimously, with all members voting.

10/14/2011: It was moved by Frances Mary D'Andrea and seconded by Diane Wormsley that the Board approve part 3 of "the article." The deadline for this vote is Tuesday, October 18 at 6:00 P.M. Eastern time. Voting yes: Bogart, Charlson, D'Andrea, Davis, Dunnam, Grimm, Laurent, McLennan, Reilly, Wormsley Not voting: McEachirn, Spicknall

All agreed that the talking points about code change are useful to those making presentations on behalf of BANA and to others, and that they should be kept current. A header will be placed on the document indicating that it is internal. Additions to the talking points were suggested.

BANA exhibits were discussed, and the board decided to continue the practice of not exhibiting at the NFB and ACB conventions but rather focus on speaking with groups at the conventions. Sue Reilly will once again manage the process of exhibiting at CTEBVI and will do a presentation there as well.

The articles on the evolution of braille have been successful. Once the third installment has been released in December, the three parts will be combined into a booklet and made available in hard copy and electronic versions.

Discussion turned to BANA's social media efforts. In addition to the Facebook and Twitter accounts, a new blog has also been established. A handout was distributed to board members, outlining how BANA can use these media and how individual members can interact with them. The handout also included ideas and questions to consider for further optimizing BANA's social media presences.

MSC A motion was made by Frances Mary D'Andrea and seconded by Jennifer Dunnam that the Education and Outreach Committee be charged to develop a coordinated social media plan. The motion passed unanimously.

MSC A motion was made by Darleen Bogart and seconded by Kim Charlson that Sue Reilly be appointed to the Education and Outreach Committee. The motion passed unanimously.

MSC A motion was made by Mary Nelle McLennan and seconded by Kim McEachirn that Ruth McKinney be appointed to the Publications Committee for a two-year term expiring in 2013. The motion passed unanimously.

MSC A motion was made by Mary Nelle McLennan and seconded by Cindi Laurent that the Publications Committee be charged to explore a new and more effective design for the BANA logo. The motion passed unanimously.

Discussion returned to the tactile graphics guidelines. It was emphasized that the decisions to be made pertained to the guidelines book but not to the supplement. The supplement was never intended to be provided in any format other than a hard copy tactile format.

The print versions of the guidelines (both hard copy and online) contain image files providing examples of the tactile graphics. In consideration of the cost of the braille version, discussion occurred about whether and how to include these images in the braille version. Ideas included inserting them as actual tactile graphics, creating verbal descriptions of the images, or omitting them entirely if the text of the guidelines provides the necessary information.

MSC A motion was made by Diane Wormsley and seconded by Kim McEachirn that the braille version of the Tactile Graphics guidelines be produced with tactile graphics. The motion passed unanimously.

GC For purposes of consistency, the tactile graphics in the braille version of the guidelines book will be produced by the American Printing House for the Blind (the producer the guidelines book) rather than by the tactile graphics committee.

The hard copy of the print version of the tactile graphics guidelines is nearly ready for release. The tactile graphics to be included in the braille version have not yet been produced, and more time will be required to do so.

The following motions were made and passed in the interest of distributing information as expeditiously as possible to those who create tactile graphics so that high quality tactile graphics can more quickly get into the hands of those who utilize them.

MSC A motion was made by Cindi Laurent and seconded by Ruth McKinney that in the case of the tactile graphics Guidelines, BANA policy requiring print and braille version of its publications to be released simultaneously be suspended so the print version can be made available as quickly as possible. The motion passed unanimously.

MSC A motion was made by Darleen Bogart and seconded by Diane Wormsley that in the case of the publication of the Tactile Graphics Guidelines, BANA suspend its usual practice of requiring a producer to sell print and braille copies at the same price. Voting yes: Bogart, Charlson, Davis, Dunnam, Laurent, McEachirn, McKinney, McLennan, Reilly, Spicknall, Wormsley. Voting no: D'Andrea

26 BANA Archives..... Frances Mary D'Andrea

Frances Mary D'Andrea, chair of the committee, read the report which is on file.

Kim Charlson was made a member of the archives committee. A committee listserv will be started.

Discussion occurred about the best ways to archive BANA's many thousands of email correspondences in a useful manner. The first step will be to learn what archiving has been done automatically by the software used for BANA's lists.

The secretary's archives were mailed to Judy Dixon's office.

27 Membership Committee..... Kim Charlson

Kim Charlson, chair of the committee, read the report, which is on file.

28 Awards Committee Darleen Bogart

The December BANA press release will be issued a few days before the presentation of the BANA Braille Excellence Award, and our social media sites will be used to promote the award. After the presentation, a page will be added on BANA's Web site with a description of the awards and the recipients.

29 Research Committee Diane Wormsley

Diane Wormsley, chair of the committee, read the report, which is on file.

The disposition of charge 206 should be shown as "ongoing"—there was a clerical error in the report.

[Charge #206 (4/2/2011) Craft a plan by the time of the August 2011 board conference call for conducting an impact analysis of 1) adopting NUBS; 2) adopting UEB; and 3) maintaining the status quo. Impact analysis is defined as "assessment of the pros and cons of pursuing a course of action, in light of its possible consequences, or the extent and nature of change it may cause."]

MSC A motion was made by Diane Wormsley and seconded by FM D'Andrea that the disposition of Charge #204 be changed from TBA to Done.

[Charge #204 (10/31/10) To work with the CBC to devise a strategy for obtaining feedback from braille readers about the use of the continuation indicator in the Computer Braille Code.]

Frances Mary D'Andrea will no longer be a co-chair of the committee but will remain a member of the committee.

The framework for the impact analysis was sent out at the time of the august meeting and is in the meeting packet.

MSC A motion was made by Jennifer Dunnam and seconded by Diane Wormsley that the Education and Outreach Committee be charged to work in collaboration with the Research Committee to continue to refine the impact statement.

The purpose of this effort is to make sure that the board is able to learn what it needs to know in order to make a decision.

It was deemed useful for the board to spend some time brainstorming and prioritizing factors and information needed for a decision about code change. The session was led by Mary Nelle McLennan and Diane Wormsley, and it was deferred until the following morning. The questions to be addressed were these:

What are the most important factors that we should consider to make a decision for code change?

Then what do we have to know to get there?

- 38 International Braille Organizations

- 38.2 World Braille Council Diane Wormsley

Diane Wormsley gave a report on World Braille Congress Braille 21 in Leipzig, Germany, and others who had attended added their observations—Frances Mary D'Andrea, Mary Nelle McLennan, Judy Dixon, and Darleen Bogart.

400 people were registered, and there were six workshops held over 3.5 days. Judy Dixon's strand was braille in daily life. There was a keynote from a deafblind person who used German sign language for his part of the speech, and he had to translate it into German and then into English. It was a fascinating presentation.

The braille 21 award was presented to portable embossing format, a method of marking up a document so that the format comes out right regardless of other braille variables. It was developed by the library of Sweden.

The papers from the conference will be published under the auspices of the DBZ. There will be braille files created as well as hard copy publications. More braille available, visible, and affordable was a primary statement from the conference. Other similar conferences are being considered to correspond to the W braille council regional conferences.

In the education strand, it was observed that there were differences between underdeveloped countries and wealthier countries particularly with respect to refreshable braille, and the conference was a good reminder about that. Lively discussion occurred around voting: should the emphasis still be on braille ballots or should cell phones be emphasized (the fastest growing technology in sub-Saharan Africa)? In some of the countries, people who are blind are not even considered citizens, cannot own property, cannot marry.

In the daily life strand it seemed that people had more conversations about the issues of refreshable braille and technology.

There were exhibits, and there was also a "market of opportunities" where people who had made braille quilts and the like could show their wares.

One presenter from India covered the topic of "undoing the damage"; he was concerned about going back to pre-braille days—audio. A great deal of concern was expressed about the future of braille and that it might die out if not enough was available.

Judy Dixon opened the conference with the keynote. A common plea in the conference was refreshable braille displays needing economy, manufactures needing to get together.

The participants in the conference were challenged to "eat, drink, and network". At one point there was a concert of 4 classical guitarists, and after that everyone walked to the oldest restaurant in Leipzig where one of the scenes in Faust was set. At another time they went to hear the St. Thomas boys' choir. In addition, the conference was scheduled the week of Oktoberfest, which provided ample opportunities to experience the community. The conference was observed to be very well run.

The willingness and passion of people to come from all over the world—nonprofessionals included, was inspiring. There were 52 countries represented. There was evidence of the digital divide. At some level the technology is a threat to the acquisition of braille in some countries.

One presenter was a professor in Peru doing research on indigenous cultures in South America which do not have braille codes or even schools.

In Croatia there is an effort to establish a braille authority. To establish a standard in a country where people are killing one another presents immense challenges. Kevin Kerry, the director of RNIB, gave a presentation entitled “will braille survive”? in which he advocated the use of uncontracted braille to make it as easy as possible so that more people will learn braille. He also discussed people who are blind and not braille readers, and the need to find out what would make newly blinded adults learn braille, not just what changes current braille readers will accept.

It is anticipated that the proceedings of Braille 21 will be available to the public by Christmas.

38.1 ICEB Darleen Bogart

Darleen Bogart gave a report on the International Council on English Braille. The call for ICEB papers has gone out. a bylaw revision is in the works. Progress is being made on the revision of World Braille Usage. With Judy on the World Braille Council there is greater collaboration with ICEB.

BANA's delegation to the ICEB 2012 meeting will consist of Diane Wormsley, Frances Mary D’Andrea, Kim Charlson, and Judy Dixon. BANA will provide funding for Frances Mary to attend and will provide half of the funding for Kim Charlson.

Sunday morning:

Discussion occurred regarding the BANA Excellence Award. The award will be given during the Getting In Touch With Literacy conference during December. National Braille Press will be asked to produce the award.

An hour was spent discussing the two questions formulated the previous day regarding code change. A list of the factors to be considered was created, but there was not sufficient time to prioritize them during this session. The work on this effort will continue.

34 Treasurer's Report Bonnie Grimm

Sue Reilly read the financial statement and the "year-to-date" with projected budget, which are on file. The board reviewed and made revisions to the coming year's budget. The document will be emailed to the board shortly after the meeting.

35 Strategic Planning Diane Wormsley and Mary Nelle McLennan

Diane Wormsley reported that the SPIT Team has not met recently. The Education and Outreach committee has completed significant work on its imperative, and much of the work has overlapped with the imperative on communication.

36 Press Releases Mary Nelle McLennan

The board agreed upon the contents of the press release to be issued concerning this meeting, as well as on future press releases.

37 UEB Update Darleen Bogart

Darleen Bogart reported that some titles are currently available in UEB in the CNIB library but that library resources at CNIB are stretched during the completion of their grant to digitize the library.

The revision of the UEB instruction manual for adults is complete. The revision of the transcribers manual will be available in print and braille early in the new year. Courses are being piloted for people wanting to upgrade their certification. Parents organizations are involved and are communicating with the government; it is hoped that this will assist in bringing about an implementation plan for Canada.

ICEB has a code maintenance committee for UEB; they are working to finish some items that are used less frequently, and those will be included in the new edition of the rule book, which will be available sometime soon. One item being formulated is a code switching mechanism for switching from UEB to music braille or Nemeth code.

39 Spring 2012 meeting Cindi Laurent
